Ethics

- code of behavior that is defined by the group
- Principles of right and wrong
- Ethics is not just about obeying laws. Sometimes something may be legal but unethical, and sometimes ethical but not legally required.
- Scenario:
 - A software company collects users' browsing data. It may be legal if users accepted the terms. But if the company hides the data collection in lengthy terms and conditions, many people would consider it unethical.

Differences

- Ethics: set of principles of people what they ought to do
- Morals : personal beliefs backed by families, religion, culture
- Values: individual priority, importance
- Norms: societal expectations

Normative ethics

- branch of ethics that establishes standards or principles for deciding what actions are morally right or wrong.
- Morally right or wrong.
 - What should a person do?

Meta ethics

- Meta-ethics studies the nature, meaning, and origin of moral values. Instead of deciding what is right or wrong.
 - What do we mean by 'good', 'bad', 'right', or 'wrong'?
 - Software piracy is wrong.

Applied ethics

- Broader category of ethics which deals with real life complexity, personal or professional, social or governmental.
- It answers “How to act in particular situations”?

Business Ethics

- Ethics related with business
 - Is false advertising acceptable?
 - Fraud, fair pricing?
 - Use of celebrities or influential artist for false marketing?
